

About

Danielle Davies is a New Jersey mother of two who once acted in a play with Bradley Cooper when they were students together at Villanova University.

"Since then, he's become startlingly famous and I ... not so much," she says.

Davies is currently writing a book called My Life With Bradley Cooper, which details how their lives continue to have weird parallels but are ultimately nothing alike.

She created this website—featuring photos of Davies, her family, and a cardboard cut-out of a dashing Cooper taking part in often hilarious domestic activities—as a way for her to poke fun at how her life has evolved, while her one-time stage equal has gone on to become an Academy Award nominee.

Davies is thrilled to have the support and participation of her family in the project, including her husband Ed, who she describes as "possibly the most patient husband in the world," their son, their daughter, and of course, cardboard cutout Bradley Cooper.

Be sure to sign up for Davies' email updates and follow the family's fun times with Brad on Instagram!

Please note that the real life movie star, Bradley Cooper, has in no way participated, authorized or endorsed this pursuit, website, vision or hallucination.
